Document description

This document describes a multilingual (Italian/English/Romanian) thesaurus for the numismatic field.

Responsible partner/author: PIN/Achille Felicetti, Andrea D'Andrea

Executive summary

The present report describes a multilingual thesaurus for the numismatic field, currently tri-lingual (Italian, Romanian and English).

The thesaurus is fully described in the Appendix.

1. Introduction

One of the pillars of the COINS project concerns the standardization of the data organization. The task of defining standards for the digital management of numismatic collection is the main goal of WP2. This activity consists of three separate, but converging, tasks: the definition of the domain ontology, the mapping of existing or legacy data structures to the domain ontology and the creation of a multilingual thesaurus.

The present report concerns the third one of the above tasks, the creation of a multilingual thesaurus. However, as the three tasks are tightly related to each other, some parts of it will be in common with the corresponding reports about the other two. These common parts are intentionally repeated in each report for the sake of self-consistency, but may be obviously skipped if the three reports are consulted together.

All the above-mentioned tasks have been completed with regard to the project needs. It is however clear that if new organizations would join the COINS system, the products may require adaptation. Nevertheless, the work done here paves the way for such potential new additions, demonstrating that the proposed solution is general enough to adapt to different circumstances.

Furthermore, the creation of the thesaurus is work in progress, as new terms are continuously added as long as testing proceeds. The current version is an interim result, already usable for the COINS system, but susceptible of improvement during the project work.

2. A Multilingual Thesaurus for Numismatics

A thesaurus is used to standardize terminology and, as a result, allows the recording of information in a consistent and retrievable way. A thesaurus provides the user with a single preferred term to use where there is a choice of terms with the same or similar meaning. It also allows terms, with similar subjects, to be grouped together into hierarchies and cross-referenced to other groups of terms, which have a similar subject. Creating terms in a hierarchical order allows these terms to be indexed at general or specific level when appropriate. A thesaurus can be developed by the addition, amendment and deletion of terms, relationships between terms and/or hierarchies as dictated by users needs.

The construction of the thesaurus is based on the use of the following three basic relationships among terms: equivalence, hierarchical and associative. These are defined according to the ISO 2788 standard Guidelines for establishment and development of monolingual thesauri (see Table 1). As for the different levels of linguistic equivalence established between the different languages, they are specified by the ISO 5964 standard Guidelines for establishment and development of multilingual thesauri.

Relationship	Abbreviation
Hierarchical	BT: Broader Term
	NT: Narrower Term
Associative	RT: Related Term
Equivalence	USE: Use (Preferred Term)
	UF: Used For (Non-Preferred Term)

Definition	SN: Scope Note
-------------------	-----------------------

In our case, the simple hierarchical structure of the thesaurus has determined the absence of poly-hierarchy, i.e. a BT does not appear under more than one class.

3. Creating the Multilingual Thesaurus for Numismatics

The definition of the Multilingual Thesaurus has been developed following an iterative approach, consisting of the following steps:

- i. detailed examination of the controlled lists used by partners with the interested party, i.e. the partner currently using them;
- ii. preliminary definition of the basic elements and concepts present in partners' term lists;
- iii. revision of the intended meaning with the relevant partners, to assess the initial thesaurus design;
- iv. formulation of the multilingual thesaurus.

It resulted that there are four basic concepts: "coin", "denomination" i.e. the face value, "mint" and (minting) "authority". For each of these, a list of narrower terms has been provided. The latter remain usually the same in different languages, except for generic words (as "Unknown", for example) and a few less-preferred terms that will be progressively added to the thesaurus, for example the translation of "denarius" into the different languages.

4. The Multilingual Thesaurus

The Appendix describes in detail the Multilingual Thesaurus.

Appendix

Note. To avoid doubling the length of the document, the distinction between term names and their labels is not shown for the terms in the lowest positions in the hierarchy, since almost all of them are the same in the different languages.
